

ARE YOU PREPARED?

Life ends, but in a bang

Ashes to Ashes is an Australian-wide company offering a unique yet personal way to commemorate the loss of a loved one by scattering their cremated ashes high into the sky through beautiful and spectacular fireworks.

Each fireworks memorial is created by a sensitive team of professionals upholding honour, dignity and respect so grieving families can celebrate the special lives of those lost too soon in a memorable experience never to be forgotten.

Founder and owner of Ashes to Ashes Craig Hull said his own grief led him on the path to start the business.

"I had two wonderful dogs in my life, and after losing them 10 years apart, I was looking for something special to do with their cremated remains, so I decided to become a pyrotechnic and set them off the [Sydney] Harbour Bridge through fireworks," he said.

"That feeling of wonderment and joy I got from the experience, rather than sadness, helped me love, live and laugh again, and that's where our company motto came from.

Ashes to Ashes not only specialise in fireworks displays but they also offer a range of packages to accommodate for each individual's specific needs.

"We have celebrants and funeral directors on hand, organise cremations if required, deploy fireworks in conjunction with music that is special to the person and their family, as well as own portable PA systems so no matter where you are, we can provide an experience to remember" Mr Hull said.

"We are also certified to fly drones at night, so we can capture the moments that are important to our clients and give them something to remember their loved ones by.

"We try to tailor to fit everyone's budget. We have small packages through to large packages, and adjust them accordingly to suit each family, so everyone has the opportunity to celebrate the life of their loved ones."

Mr Hull also said he has a special companion by his side to help things run smoothly.

"My assistant dog, Rigger the Labrador,
